Holy Trinity Church has a striking collection of stained glass windows of which The Rose Window is the oldest and most vulnerable. The Victorian stained glass is by Hardman and Co. (1873) whilst the 14th century stonework is considered to be amongst the finest examples in the country of medieval 'tracery'. The design and colour of the artwork, depicting bible stories from the Old and New Testaments, is magnificent: see the example below of Noah's 'dove of peace' located at the very heart of 'The Rose.'

The Project

A major reordering programme completed in 2020 has achieved a much drier atmosphere and constant temperature in the church consistent with the conservation of historic buildings making it safe to move on to the cleaning, restoration and protection from further decay of the windows. Close-up digital investigations of the Rose window have revealed much more serious and rapid deterioration of the masonry and metal work than was previously estimated bringing some urgency to the project

Work to be done:

- Cleaning of all and removal of some glazed panels to allow for repair of crumbling masonry and replacement of historic plated repairs which are failing.
- Repointing masonry with lime mortar and cleaning the stone .
- Replacing rusting saddle bars with stainless steel.

Estimated Cost: £130,000.

How can I help? by making a donation or sponsoring the Rose window.
See the Windows Project booklet for information on all of the windows.
